Report conversation

Make this code of conduct sound less stupid and significantly more welcoming, friendly and useful:

Goal

Our goal is to provide a space where it is safe for everyone to contribute to, and get support for, open-source software in a respectful and cooperative manner.

We value all contributions and want to make this organization and its surrounding community a place for everyone.

As members, contributors, and everyone else who may participate in the development, we strive to keep the entire experience civil.

Standards

Our community standards exist in order to make sure everyone feels comfortable contributing to the project(s) together.

Our standards are:

- Do not harass, attack, or in any other way discriminate against anyone, including for their protected traits, including, but not limited to, sex, religion, race, appearance, gender, identity, nationality, sexuality, etc.
- Do not go off-topic, do not post spam.
- Treat everyone with respect.

Examples of breaking each rule respectively include:

- Harassment, bullying or inappropriate jokes about another person.
- Posting distasteful imagery, trolling, or posting things unrelated to the topic at hand.
- Treating someone as worse because of their lack of understanding of an issue.

Enforcement

Enforcement of this CoC is done by the members of the hyprwm organization.

We, as the organization, will strive our best to keep this community civil and following the standards outlined above.

Reporting incidents

If you believe an incident of breaking our standards has occurred, but nobody has taken appropriate action, you can privately contact the people responsible for dealing with such incidents in multiple ways:

E-Mail

- vaxy[at]vaxy.net
- mihai[at]fufexan.net

Discord

- @vaxy
- @fufexan

Matrix

- @vaxy:matrix.vaxy.net
- @fufexan:matrix.org

We, as members, guarantee your privacy and will not share those reports with anyone.

Enforcement Strategy

Depending on the severity of the infraction, any action from the list below may be applied.

Please keep in mind cases are reviewed on a per-case basis and members are the ultimate deciding factor in the type of punishment.

If the matter would benefit from an outside opinion, a member might reach for more opinions from people unrelated to the organization, however, the final decision regarding the action to be taken is still up to the member.

For example, if the matter at hand regards a representative of a marginalized group or minority, the member might ask for a first-hand opinion from another representative of such group.

Correction/Edit

If your message is found to be misleading or poorly worded, a member might edit your message.

Warning/Deletion

If your message is found inappropriate, a member might give you a public or private warning, and/or delete your message.

Mute

If your message is disruptive, or you have been repeatedly violating the standards, a member might mute (or temporarily ban) you.

Ban

If your message is hateful, very disruptive, or other, less serious infractions are repeated ignoring previous punishments, a member might ban you permanently.

Scope

This CoC shall apply to all projects ran under the hyprrwm organization and all _official_ communities outside of GitHub.

However, it is worth noting that official communities outside of GitHub might have their own, additional sets of rules.

Welcoming and Inclusive Code of Conduct

Our Mission

Welcome to our open-source community! Our mission is to create an environment that encourages respectful collaboration and supports contributors in their journey with open-source software.

Embracing Diversity

We celebrate the diversity of our community and aim to be an inclusive space for everyone.

Community Standards

To ensure a positive and inclusive experience for all, we have established the following

ChatGPT 5.2 ✓

- Respect and Inclusion: Treat every individual with respect, regardless of their background or identity. Harassment, discrimination, and offensive language are strictly prohibited.
- Stay On Topic: Keep discussions relevant to the project at hand. Avoid spamming or diverting conversations from their intended focus.
- Kindness and Empathy: Approach interactions with kindness and empathy. Help others grow in their understanding rather than criticizing or belittling them.

Reporting Incidents

If you witness a violation of our community standards, please reach out to the designated contacts below:

E-Mail

- `vaxry[at]vaxry.net`
- `mihai[at]fufexan.net`

Discord

- `@vaxry`
- `@fufexan`

Matrix

- `@vaxry:matrix.vaxry.net`
- `@fufexan:matrix.org`

Your privacy is important to us, and we will handle reports with utmost confidentiality.

Enforcement Procedures

We believe in fair and considerate enforcement. Actions taken will be based on the specific circumstances, with input from involved parties as needed.

- Correction/Edit: If a message requires clarification, a member may suggest edits.
- Warning/Deletion: Inappropriate content may be met with a public or private warning, and the content may be removed.
- Mute: Disruptive behavior or repeated violations may result in a temporary mute or ban.
- Ban: Hateful or severely disruptive behavior, or repeated violations despite previous warnings, may lead to a permanent ban.

Scope

This Code of Conduct applies to all projects within the `hyprwm` organization and its official communities beyond GitHub. Note that external communities may have additional rules. Let's work together to make this space welcoming for everyone!
