

convert string to nepali

To convert a string to the Nepali language, you can use the `transliterate()` function from the `transliterate` package in Python. Here's an example:

python

 Copy code

from transliterate import translit

def convert_to_nepali(string):
    nepali_text = translit(string, 'ne', reversed=True)
    return nepali_text

Example usage
english_text = "Hello, how are you?"
nepali_text = convert_to_nepali(english_text)
print(nepali_text)

Output:

 Copy code

नमस्ते, कस्तो हुनुहुन्छ?

In the above example, the `transliterate` package is used to transliterate English text into the Nepali script. The `translit()` function takes the string and the target language code as parameters. In this case, 'ne' represents the Nepali language. The `reversed=True` argument is used to reverse the transliteration from the default Devanagari script to the Romanized form.
