

Report conversation

How do I say this sentence without demeaning anybody?

"A TypeScript repo without semi-colons? Who's in charge here? Lol."

You can express your surprise or curiosity about the coding style in a TypeScript repository without demeaning anyone by framing your question in a more neutral and inquisitive tone. Here's an example of how you could phrase it:

"Interesting choice to omit semi-colons in this TypeScript repository. Could someone share the reasoning behind this decision?"